

THE FIRE

By: Liam Gordon & George Bull

THE FIRE

Published November, 2018

Hoges Productions,

All ideas by the authors as told to Hoges

Deni North Public School,

Deniliquin, NSW

CONTENTS

CHAPTER 1: On the Farm

Page 4

CHAPTER 2: Lightning Strikes

Page 6

CHAPTER 3: The Fire

Page 8

CHAPTER 4: Not again

Page 10

ON THE FARM

Liam was driving his green, John Deere tractor. He was pushing up some fences, because they were broken. He pushed them into a big pile. Then he dragged them away to the scrap pile.

His friend, George, was ploughing dead grass, two paddocks away from Liam. He went over some bumpy rocks. George fell off his tractor, and the tractor went flying. It went flying into the channel.

SPLASH!-The tractor sank.

George was on the ground. He was bleeding from the sharp rocks.

LIGHTNING STRIKES

Suddenly, the sky went black. It started to rain. It started to thunder. Lightning zig-zagged down from the sky. It nearly hit George.

The lightning hit some dry grass that George missed. A hot fire burst out of the grass and started to spread.

Lucky for George, he had a phone in his pocket. He rang his friend, Liam.

"Hello!" said Liam.

"Hey! It's George!" said George.

"There's a big fire spreading, and I need you and your fire truck."

"Okay!" said Liam. "I'll be there in two minutes."

THE FIRE

Liam came flying down the track, driving his red, Cat 6 fire truck. It was a bumpy track. He stopped the truck. On the front of the truck was a cannon-bomb. Liam sprayed the fire. George helped to spray the fire, too.

Liam's Cat 6 truck soon ran out of water, AND, it ran out of petrol. So Liam jumped onto the back of George's fire truck.

Liam and George went to get some more water. They went to the silo tank and filled up with water.

It was pouring rain.

On the way back, Liam had to hold on tight, because George was speeding. Liam had to close his eyes, because there was so much dust coming up.

When they got back to the fire, the rain had already put the fire out.

NOT AGAIN

Just then, some more lightning hit Liam's tractor. The tractor blew up. Flames went flying and Liam's paddock caught on fire.

George and Liam saw orange flames, so George rammed through the gate with his fire truck.

George accidentally pressed a lever in the truck to fire a water-bomb, and all of a sudden the water in his tank disappeared.

Lucky for George and Liam, George's Cat 6 fire truck had another tank, BUT, it was blocked.

Liam flew off the back of George's truck and cleaned out the gunk.

George changed the pipes over to the clean tank and the water flew out of the fire hose.

In no time, the fire was out, and George and Liam drove home.

What a day!

THE FIRE

