

The Land of Backward
Dreams

J. C. Charlton

2016

Author: Jaye Charlton

Class: 6S

Teacher: Miss Smith

Principal: Mr Hogan

It all started one sunny and beautiful morning. Sally awoke to the sun's glistening face.

She had enjoyed a hot breakfast of raisin toast and hot chocolate.

Sally thought she might ring her best friend, Bobby.

"Ring ring, ring ring," repeated the phone.

"Hello, Bobby here," spoke Bobby through the phone.

"Hi, its Sally here. I was wondering if you would come to 'The Land of Backward Dreams'," announced Sally.

Sally went over to Bobby's house. They put some magic powder on each other. The magic powder made them fly.

Sally and Bobby flew to 'Land of Backward Dreams'. Once they got there, they saw the most amazing toast trees, and best of all, some egg and bacon trees. They picked at the trees until they were full.

"Yum, Yum," they both said in unison. It was splendid, spectacular and super!

Sally and Bobby went for a walk and Sally saw a beautiful flower and stopped. A big, mean, ugly and old looking octopus came up from behind and took her.

Bobby had kept on walking but when he looked back, Sally had disappeared.

Mr Octopus took Sally to an underground jail cell and locked her up. He left.

"Help, help! Help, Help," yelled Sally as loudly as she could.

Bobby heard noises and headed in their direction.

He reached the prison where Sally was confined.

"I'll help you," hollered Bobby.

He stumbled upon a large hole. He made his way down and found Sally, crying in a corner. Bobby found the key and unlocked the door and saved Sally. She was as happy as Larry.

Sally and Bobby flew back home. Bobby was OK but Sally was a bit sick from sniffing the flower. After a few weeks she was good as gold.

Enjoy the adventure that Sally and Bobby embark on in 'The Land of Backward Dreams'. Sally is taken by Mr Octopus. Will she be saved?

What they said about The Land of Backward Dreams:

'I love eggs and bacon.' (Miss Smith)

'Whoa! What a great 'frogtastic'
story.'" (Mr Hogan)

'What a great foal-tastic
story.' (Black Stallion)