It all started when Mort the mermaid was swimming to the bottom of the sea to find coral.

Whilst he was looking, he found a golden box that had something inside. It was full of dust- but not any dust. It was rainbow dust.

August the 28. 1847

In the box there was a note.

On the note it read, "In this box you will find dust. This dust will make a fairy."

Mort read on.

"To make this fairy you will need:
two frog's eyes, a drop of blood,
three maple leaves and a lock of blond hair from a princess."

Mort thought to himself, "I must find these ingredients."

So he started on his journey. He bumped into his brother, Rida who was a unicorn.

Mort said, "I am going to find 6 ingredients to make a fairy."

"Cool I will help," replied Rida.

“Ok, you can use your magic powers to get the ingredients to make the fairy,” announced Mort.

So ingredient by ingredient, Mort and Rida made a fairy.

It didn't look like a good fairy, it looked evil.

Annabelle was her name.

"You didn't say the chant," Annabelle said to the brothers.

"What is it?" they asked.

"Frog eyes, rainbows, lolly popsscary! Mix these ingredients and you will make a fairy."

That is the chant? " they asked curiously!"

They tried to say it but every time they did, they faded away. They said it so many times, that they faded away to not even a shadow.
