Have you ever wondered what it would be like to get sucked into a portal, or a portal in a portable toilet? Well I have a story to tell you!

It was a nice sunny day and as per usual Mum did not want to go outside, but I did. So I walked outside through what seemed like a jungle of grass, until I realised the grass was not towering over my feet anymore.

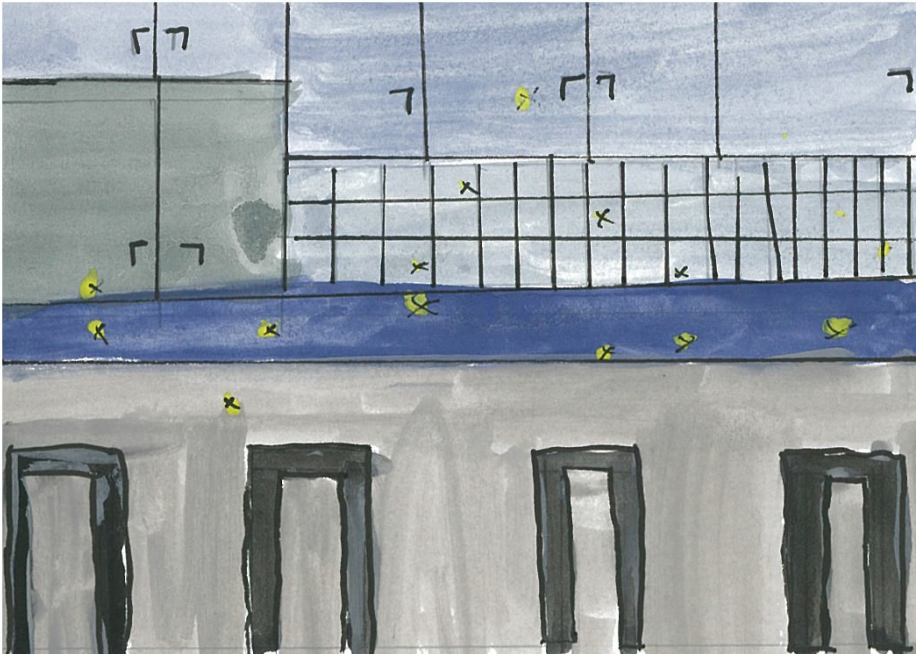

“But why was this happening?” I thought. Then I saw a portable toilet.

Like any normal person, I went up and looked inside. All of the sudden, I was getting sucked into the toilet! I had no hope of getting away. The next thing I knew, I was in Paris. I was so confused. I went up to this girl with writing on her back that read, 'Tour Guide'.

She said in a fluent romantic accent,
“Ja ma pel, Milly,” and the rest I could not understand. So, I decided it would probably be a good idea to see what would happen if I went back into the portable toilet and thought of home, maybe it would take me home.

The next second I was home! My theory was right. I woke up to a sparkling clean house, no surprise! Mum was a clean freak- that is why she would not dare go outside. I walked out of the lavender smelling house to check if the portable toilet was still there. It was. I thought to myself, "Where should I go today?" then it came to me- Africa!

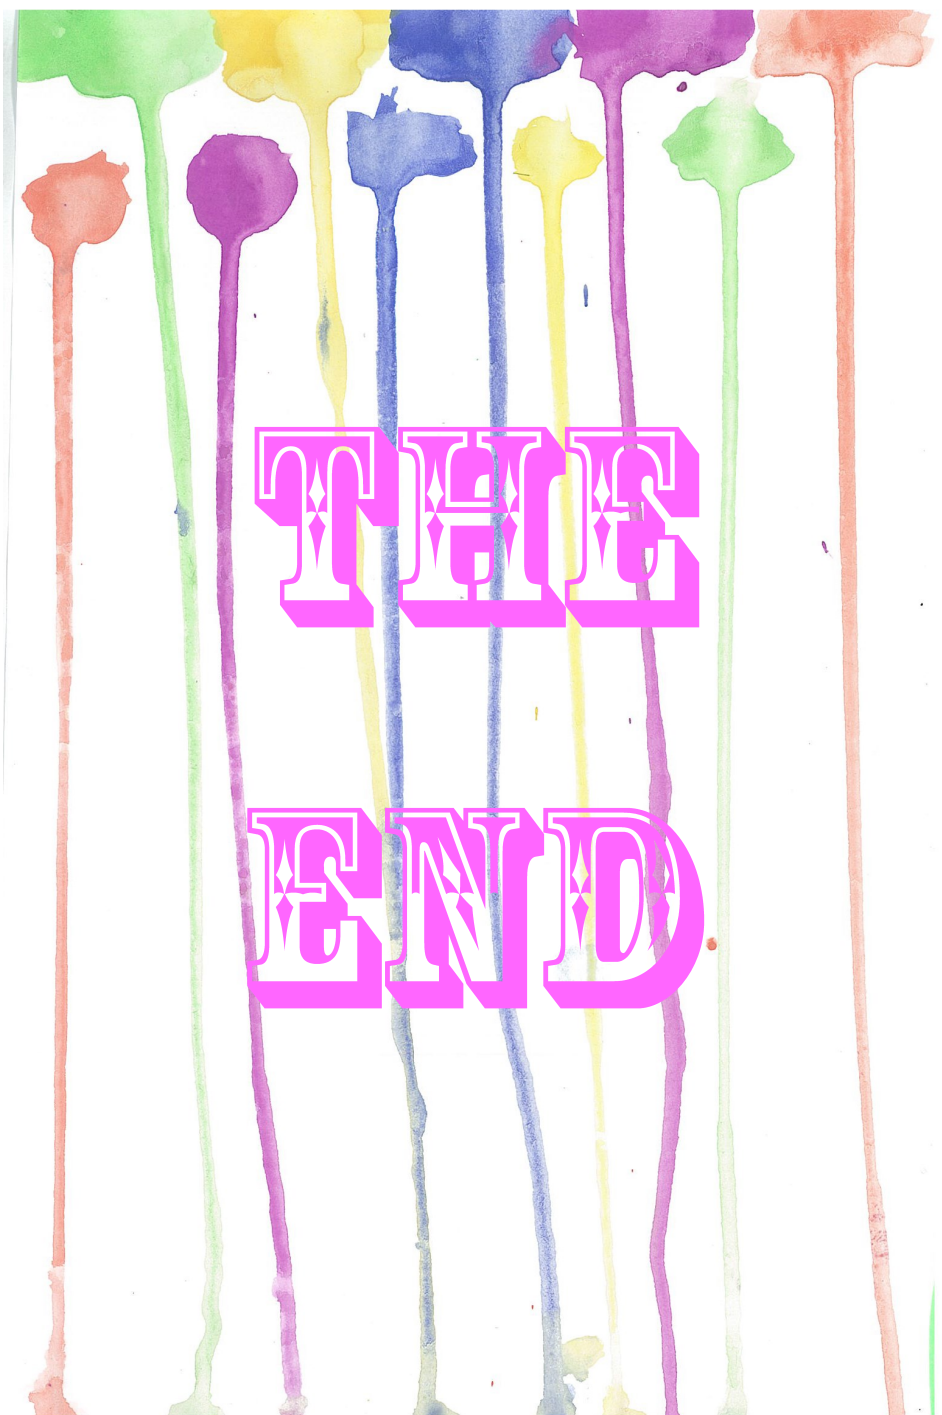

There was no Ebola so I thought it would have been a great idea- but it wasn't. I got into the portable toilet and 'whoosh!' I was soon in Africa. It was a beautiful sight. But then a uni-shadonkeycow flew out of the sky and knocked me out! I woke up in an African hospital with a bandage around my head.

A nurse came from behind a curtain and told me I had a severe head injury! I had to stay for ages. Then on the day I was allowed to get out, I was told I had caught Ebola, I thought Ebola was no longer around but obviously NOT!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Hi my name is Sophie Ann Willis. I am twelve years old and my birthday is the 18th April. I live on a farm in Deniliquin, NSW, where I have been all my life. I have two brothers and one sister. My mum and dad split up when I was six and about a year later she found an old country 'fella', Matt. They had a little boy in 2012. Then in 2016 (this year) they got married out on our farm. My mum loves animals- we have around twenty birds, four dogs, one cat, two horses, a pet calf, two lambs and a turtle, but she really wants an alpaca.

The Portable Toilet Portal is a very interesting story about a very interesting girl and a 'dunny'. Join the fun and go on a big adventure through a toilet all over the world!
